RUSH COUNTY BOY ISHURT IN WRECK

Elza Miles, Mail Clerk of Indianapolis is Among Seven Injured in Pennsylvania Accident.

ENGINE DERAILED; ONE KILLED

Former Local Man, Once School
Teacher Here, Has Harrowing Experience.

Elza R. Miles, a mail clerk of Indianapolis, who was one of the seven men injured in a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad just east of Indianapolis, Thursday night, is the son of the late Richard S. Miles of Washington township, and is a brother of Delbert Miles of Raleigh. He was born and reared in Washington township and lived there until a few years ago.

The train which was wrecked was a fast one which carries mail between New York City and St. Louis and is devoted to that alone. It ran into an open switch and was derailed. It is the theory of Pennsylvania detectives that the switch was left open by discharged employes for the purpose of wrecking the train. A careful investigation is being conducted.

George G. McGraw of Indianapolis, the engineer on the train, was pinned under the locomotive when it was derailed and scalded to death. Benjamin F. Martz, the fireman of Indianapolis, was pinned under the engine and was so badly scalded that he may die.

Six other men were seriously injured in the wreck, Mr. Miles being one of the number. Five of them were mail clerks and the other was a stoker on the engine. The fact that all of the mail clerks were not killed is attributed to the steel cars. They were jammed up against one another with terrific force, but were not crushed.

Twenty-five men outside of the train crew were in the seven coaches filled with mail and trainmen declare they owe their lives to the steel construction of the coaches in which they worked. The great steel cars held their own against the terrific buffeting to which they were subjected, and none but the first two coaches were badly damaged. They failed to collapse, but resisted the terrible pushing of the cars behind when the engine left the rails and plowed into the ground, buckling and throwing themselves end to end fifty feet from the right of way. The two cars next to the engine did not turn over.

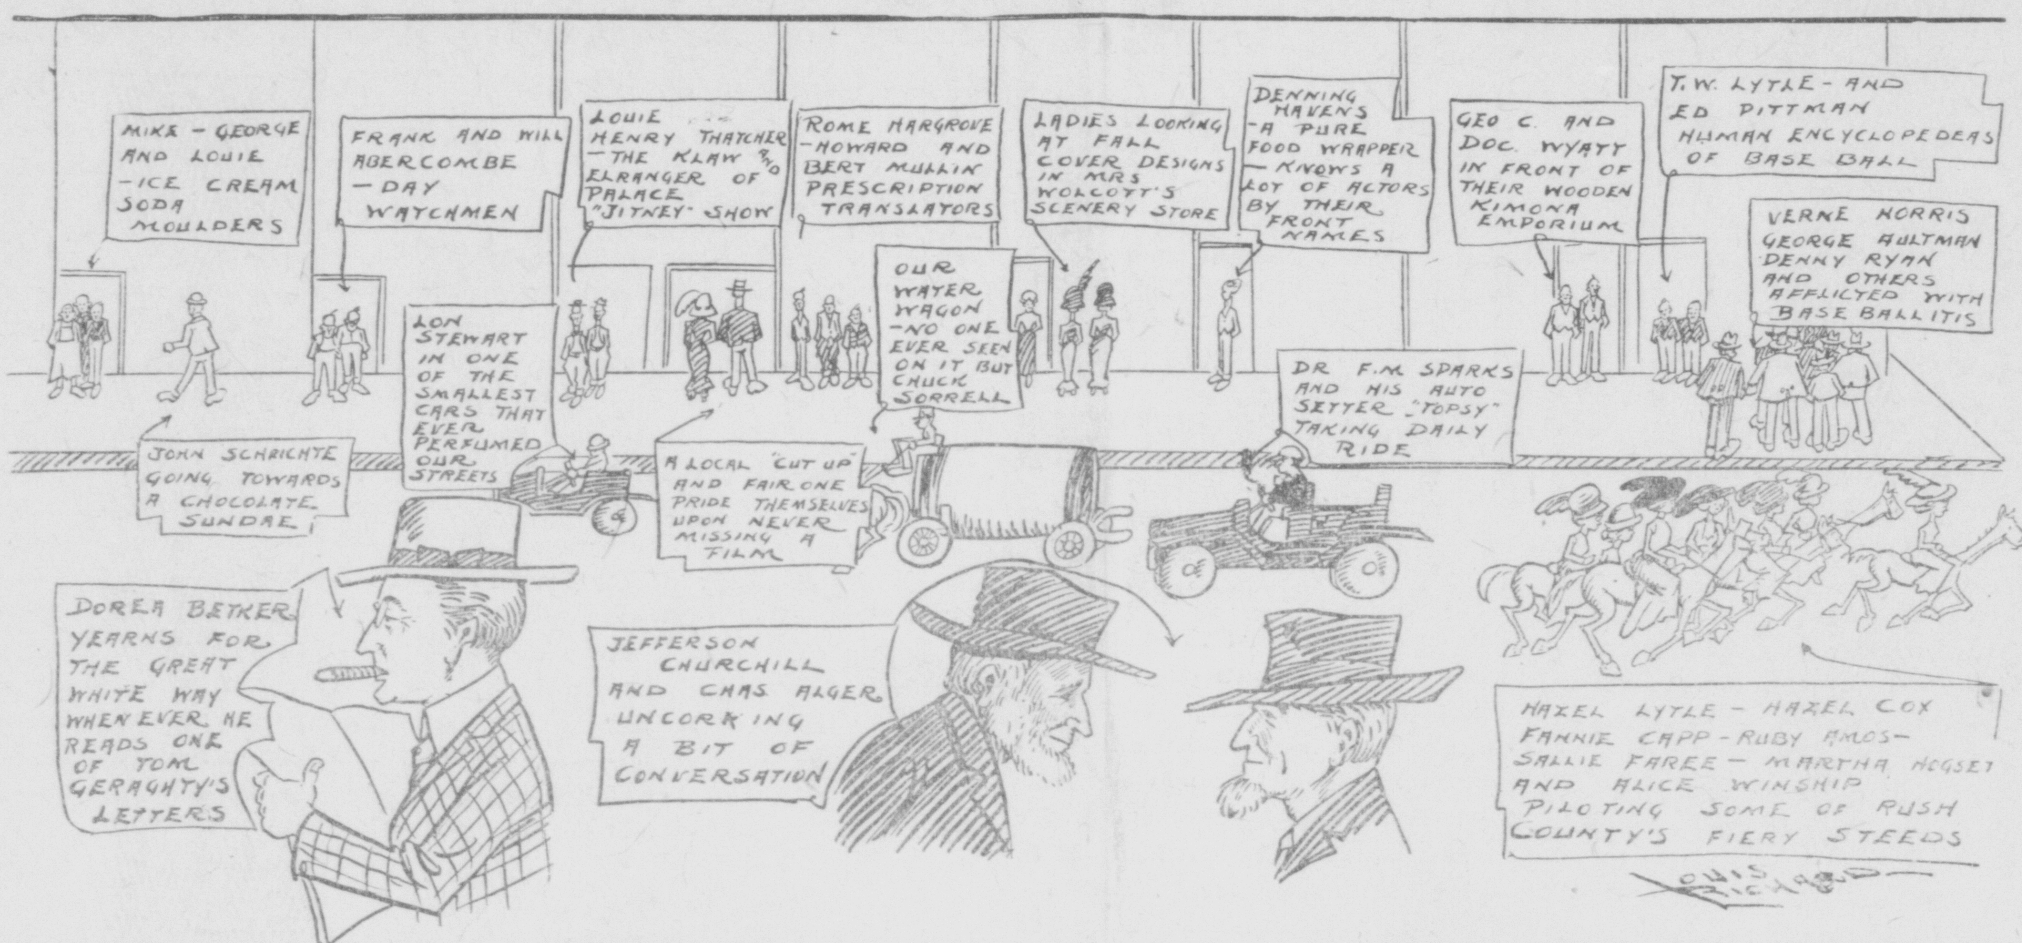

Mr. Miles was in the second car from the engine when the engine struck the switch. He told of his experiences which were similar to those of the other clerks. "I was standing in the front part of the car," he said, "when I felt it leave the rails. Then we were hurled about in the car like dice in a box. I was jammed against one of the small racks and it went almost through me. The din was awful. Finally we struck the earth, the forward end of the car at right angles with the track and settled to a standstill."

Mr. Miles is well known in Washington township and is acquainted all over the county. He taught school in Rush county for a number of years before becoming a mail clerk. He married a daughter of Thomas Martin of Washington township.

Plans laid by the little god of love may be badly disarranged by the god of bad luck, the result of an accident that occurred at St. Paul about noon Thursday, in which the sufferer was J. F. Wise, a well known barber of that place. Mr. Wise and some of his friends were scuffling on the street when he slipped and fell, breaking his right arm above the wrist. The fracture is a very bad one and was set by Dr. Bead. Not long ago announcement was made of the engagement of Mr. Wise and Miss Rose Linder of Indianapolis, and the wedding is expected to take place in Indianapolis next Tuesday, October 24.

BARRETT MUST BE ARRESTED AGAIN

Judge Blair Says Man Living Near
Knightstown Must Give Rush
County Bondsman.

NEW WARRANT SENT TO HENRY

Officials of the Rush circuit court thought from the first after Cyrus Barrett was arrested on a warrant from this county by Sheriff Kirk of Henry county, for failing to bury dead hogs, that he should have been brought to Rushville to give bond. Instead Barrett gave bond for $150 and was released by the Henry county sheriff shortly after his arrest.

As soon as the news of the arrest had been received here Thursday the local court officials decided that the procedure was illegal. Judge Blair was consulted over the long distance telephone from Shelbyville and he said that Barrett had no right to give bond to the Henry county sheriff unless the man who went on his bond owned land in Rush county. The map was consulted and it was found that Barrett's bondsman is not a Rush county land owner. Another warrant was sent to the Henry county sheriff today as a result and he will have to re-arrest Barrett.

RUSHVILLE IS TO BE THANKFUL

Escapes Epidemic of Diphtheria
While Cities in All Parts of State Are Suffering.

KNOCK ON WOOD, SAYS LEWIS

Rushville is Unusually Healthy for
This Season of Year—Few Contagious Diseases.

Rushville should thank its lucky stars and then promptly knock on wood, according to Dr. J. G. Lewis, secretary of the city board of health, since this city has escaped any cases of diphtheria so far this fall. Other cities all over this section of the State have been afflicted with diphtheria epidemics for some time, but up to the present time no cases have appeared in Rushville.

Dr. Lewis says that there are two or three cases of sore throats in families in Rushville and that they are being watched very closely for the appearance of diphtheria symptoms. An effort will be made to keep a close watch over the city in order to prevent an epidemic of serious proportions in case the disease does break out here. Dr. Lewis urges that parents keep a close watch on their children, especially those who are attending school, and notify a physician in case of any symptoms similar to that of diphtheria.

Indianapolis is wrestling with a diphtheria epidemic which has assumed serious proportions. Indianapolis parents have been requested to keep their children off the streets and children under sixteen years of age are not allowed to attend any public gathering, according to the order of the board of health. Greensburg has over one hundred cases of the disease. The schools there are closed and children are kept off of the streets and away from public meetings of all kinds. From all points in the State comes news of diphtheria epidemics.

"Health conditions in Rushville are unusually good for this season of the year," said the city health board secretary yesterday and reports to both the city and county health officials indicate that the statement would apply to the county as well as the city.

Physicians and surgeons as well have not been rushed as much in the last couple of months as for a long time past. A review of the accidents demanding surgical attention and of diseases would show that Rush coun-

HORSE SHOW IS VOTED BEST YET

Popular Opinion of Rushville, After Sober Thought is—"Come Again."

CALDWELL'S PART IN PARADE

Belief is Strengthened That Rushville
Can Accomplish Most Anything
Nowadays.

Since people of Rushville have had opportunity for some sober thought they are even more enthusiastic about the fourth annual Rushville horse show which closed Thursday evening. No unfavorable comments have been expressed concerning the show and the fact that it passed off without a "hitch" is sufficient reason for praising the officials who had the event in charge.

The auto parade Thursday night is conceded to be one of the most popular things ever attempted in Rushville. The fact that it was a purely local event added to its attractiveness. The competition for the prizes was keen and the interest in the event was greater than has been in anything in Rushville in recent years.

Much credit is due Elmer Caldwell for his part in the parade. He was the superintendent of that part of the program and to him much praise is due. He saw to it that every automobile owner in Rushville and Rush county was invited to participate. He not only did that but he urged auto owners to compete.

The success of this year's horse show assures it for many years to come. There is no doubt but what it is a worthy enterprise and one which all Rushville merchants and residents can engage in with zeal. It serves to advertise Rushville well and it provides wholesome amusement. Rushville people are well satisfied with that sort of amusement, the kind which is not tainted and which can be enjoyed by all alike.

The success of the horse show has given rise to the comment that Rushville can accomplish most anything and recent events in the city have served to strengthen this opinion. Rushville is fast gaining confidence in itself and the popular opinion is that most any worthy enterprise will meet with success when conducted along the proper lines.

CHARGE FISH KILLING

Shelbyville Officers Arrest Two For Dynamiting in Blue River.

Joseph Addison and Jesse Lemaster were placed in jail in Shelbyville last night on a charge of having used dynamite in Blue river for the purpose of killing fish. The men are said to have been caught in the act by Officer George Tolen, who happened to be walking along the river when the explosion occurred. Tolen relieved the men of half a stick of dynamite in which the cap had already been set and of a number of other caps one of the men had in his possession. The grand jury will probably investigate the case. Mr. Addison is 70 years old and known as the "Blue River Hermit." He has always asserted he was a true sportsman.

WARNING IS HEARD BY WOMAN IN TIME

Mrs. Dave Glore Narrowly Escapes
Being Hit on Head by Falling Bucket.

RED PAINT SPLATTERS ON HER

Had F. E. Wolcott not warned her in time, Mrs. Dave Glore of 226 North Julian street would probably have been seriously hurt by a falling paint bucket in Second street in front of the Ida Dixon millinery store about six o'clock last evening. As it was red paint was splattered over Mrs. Glore's hat and suit.

Painters employed by F. E. Wolcott were working on a scaffold painting the window sashes in the second story of the building. A bucket of red paint slipped from one of the painter's hand and fell to the ground. Mrs. Glore was walking directly under the scaffold and would have been hit by the bucket had not Mr. Wolcott shouted a warning to her and she stepped back just in time. Paint spilled from the bucket on to Mrs. Glore and splattered up on her clothes when the bucket struck the sidewalk.

NEW PALESTINE BANK IS ROBBED

Yeggmen Crack Safe and Escape
With $2,400 Early This Morning on I. & C. Handcar.

OPENED SECOND TIME IN YEAR

Robbery is Different From That of Last December—Explosives
Are Used.

The New Palestine bank was robbed of an amount estimated to be $2,400 early this morning. The robbers escaped on an Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company handcar and are supposed to be in hiding in Indianapolis.

This is the second time the bank has been robbed within a year. December 30, last year, burglars worked the combination of the safe, obtained $6,416 and fled to Indianapolis on a traction line handcar and this morning the burglars did the same thing.

The latest robbery was discovered at 7 o'clock this morning when the cashier, Henry Fralich was preparing to open the bank for business. The front doors of the bank were closed, but the locks had been broken and by the side of the door was a new brace and bit.

On entering the building the cashier discovered the lock of the safe had been shattered by explosives. He made a hasty examination of the safe and found a little over $2,400 had been taken, a large amount of cash being left.

Mr. Fralich notified the town and county officers and the president of the bank, John H. Binford of Greenfield. A rope was stretched around the building and no person was permitted to enter until the arrival of bloodhounds from Indianapolis.

There is no clew to the robbers other than they stole a handcar from the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company and fled toward Indianapolis, where the handcar was found this morning. Some of the people living near the bank heard a sound that resembled a muffled explosion about 1 a. m., but no one suspected the bank was being robbed, and there was no investigation of the cause of the explosion by those who heard the noise.

Clarence Everson of New Palestine, a student at Butler college this morning discovered the handcar on which the robbers are supposed to have escaped. The car was removed from the track at Stop 2 on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati line, where the latter crosses Emerson avenue, Indianapolis, and pushed down a slight grade for a distance of about seventy feet, where it was concealed among some bushes on the east side of the street.

Everson makes the trip every morning on the traction line from New Palestine and when it was learned that the handcar was again missing, it was presumed the car had again been used by the robbers, and Mr. Everson was asked to keep a

Indications Are Republicans All Over
State Will Hold Meetings
Similar to One Here.

ARE GETTING TOGETHER NOW

Democrats May Well Take Heed of Love Feasts Such as One in Rushville.

Indianapolis, Indiana, October 21. Indiana Republicans are getting together. There is a genuine movement for party solidarity. The rank and file desire unity. The voters are working for organized efficiency, with victory in view. And the voters have more in mind than mere victory for a political party.

The year 1912, in the mind of the Indiana Republican voter, is a crucial year. The protective principle which has operated successfully for the development and astounding growth of the republic, is being attacked boldly by a new crowd of Democratic warriors. It is clear to the voters just what will happen in the event the Democrats take over control of the national congress and the presidency next year. There will come that uncertainty which is bred of demagoguery and radicalism rampant. Out of uncertainty is sure to come business blight and famine. And that is what the voters are up to at this time! This is one of the foremost reasons why Republican voters are trying to put aside differences and form so attack the enemy. That is why personal ambitions are held so lightly at this time by the rank and file. That is why the search for good and sane and capable leadership is being made at this time with such earnestness. The Republican voter is disposed to be tolerant, fair, careful and considerate. The leader who attempts to hold a position of intolerance or dogmatic dictation is not likely to get far with the voters. That is the plain truth, and plain truth is what is needed today, and truth is what the voters demand.

The destruction of the protective principle in national affairs is a big danger, from the viewpoint of Republicans. The application of a tariff-for-revenue only scheme, half-baked and poorly conceived, by any set of politicians, is sure to bring disaster, just as it brought catastrophe in 1892. But beyond the national aspect of the campaign of 1912 is in the state situation. The conditions in Indiana are worthy to be studied by all voters. Independents and Republicans especially are up in arms at this time. The more the case is studied, the more Republicans come to the inevitable conclusion that careful, courageous and wise tactics will put the Democrats on the run. Democrats are at a big disadvantage this year. The Democratic state administration has been and is a surrender of power and control to political bosses of the Steve Fleming type. And where the hand of Fleming is not engaged, the two busy hands of Taggart are at work.

The result is bankruptcy in the state treasury; prostitution of state institutions for political purposes; largely increased expenses in all departments of the state management; new jobs, new commissions, new names on the state's pay rolls; sinecures for Taggart henchmen and snaps for Fleming followers.

Not only have the Democrats entered on a regime of extravagance and misrule, but they enacted legislation which in effect deprives a large population of its rights, and robs thousands of voters of a voice in vital affairs having to do with their own surroundings and home lives. In this the Democrats have placed themselves absolutely on the defensive, and have opened the way to an alert opposition.

Add to all this the ridiculous, through dangerous and menacing attempt by a Democratic governor and a Democratic legislative caucus to re-write the state's organic law, and there is pre-arranged for Republicans and materials for a line of attack which shall throw discomfiture and dismay into the camp of the Democratic dictators who have misused their petty power in the last two or three years in such a flagrant manner as to disgust the thoughtful members of their own party.

The Democrats may well take heed of such Republican rallies as that held a short time ago at Rushville. That meeting was one where all men in the party were invited to express themselves freely. The result was a remarkable unity of opinion. The most significant note, perhaps, was the spontaneous demand that Republicans rally for Taft next year.

Another significant thing emphasized, was the need for the education of the younger Republicans and younger voters generally, in the lessons taught by the dismal soup-period of 1893-1897. Recognizing in advance many of the voters must be taught what Democratic tariff-tinkering actually means, the party workers are forewarned and forearmed for the duties of 1912.

It is said the Sixth district rally will be followed by other meetings of the same kind. The ball rolling Republicans are on the aggressive. No advantage should be overlooked. No opening should be passed by. The start of the Republican battle-line finds the Democrats already on the defensive.

OFFERS TYPHOID VACCINE FREE

Indiana State Board of Health Seeks Aid of Physicians in Combating Disease.

IS THE ONLY PREVENTIVE

Vaccinate State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Chas. Greathouse and Dr. Burckhart.

In an attempt further to protect Indiana citizens from the ravages of typhoid fever, the bacteriological laboratory of the State Board of Health will begin a crusade against the disease and will furnish anti-typhoid vaccine to physicians of the state free of charge. The state board has made a careful examination of the efficiency of that mode of treatment as a preventative for the disease and officials now assert that there is no danger from vaccination and that it makes the patient immune from the fever.

Dr. J. P. Simonds, superintendent of the laboratory, discussed the situation as follows:

The vaccine will be furnished on condition that accurate records of all cases be kept are forwarded to the laboratory. Blanks for this purpose will be supplied with the vaccine.

Anti-typhoid vaccination as a prophylactic measure against typhoid fever long since has passed the experimental stage. It is simple, harmless and effective. This method of prevention has been applied extensively in the German, English and United States armies. In the English army the number of cases of typhoid fever among the vaccinated was less than the number of deaths among a similar number of unvaccinated soldiers. During the Spanish-American war approximately one-fifth of all the American soldiers had typhoid fever with 1,580 deaths. Last spring and summer among more than 12,000 vaccinated soldiers in Texas there was only one case and that a mild one which occurred in a soldier who had received only two doses of vaccine.

In civil life as well as in the army there are many occasions for the use of anti-typhoid vaccine. All persons whose work exposes them particularly to typhoid should certainly be vaccinated. This applies especially to nurses, physicians, hospital attendants, laboratory workers, travelers and persons who go to the country for their vacations.

It is not definitely known how long the immunity to typhoid produced by vaccination will last. The experience of the English would seem to show that the men were still protected after three years; we do not know how much longer the immunity may last.

There is little question that the general application of anti-typhoid vaccination, together with the usual general hygienic measures, will do as much to eliminate typhoid fever as vaccination has done to eliminate smallpox. It should be remembered that the method is harmless. In more than 30,000 doses administered in the United States army no dangerous results have followed.

Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, and Dr. Louis Burckhart of Indianapolis were the first to be vaccinated at the laboratory. When State Health Board officials heard that they traveled about the state often and that they were exposed to the disease many times, they asked the two to submit to the vaccination.

NEW CORN PRICE LESS THAN OLD

Seasoned Cereal is Better For Milling and Feeding Purposes, Farmers Say.

SOME SELL IT BY THE POUND

Most Corn Raisers, However, Prefer to Have Prices Quoted by the Bushel.

With the adding of a quotation on new corn to the Rushville markets there comes an interesting phase of the crop which is regarded as the king of cereals in this section of the states. It is evident from the difference in price that the new corn is not valued as highly as the old cereal which has lain in a crib for seven or eight months and has been used for beds and food by the rats and other vermin for that length of time.

Of course there is a reason why the old corn is valued higher than the new product other than the age. New corn is not so desirable for feed because it is not as dry as some that has lain for several weeks. This is because the grains of corn are left on the cob and they therefore take much more time to dry thoroughly.

Wheat is left in the shock after being cut until it is thoroughly dry before there are any moves made to have it threshed. The corn is not threshed except that the protecting husks are pulled off, thus allowing a little more air to gain admittance to the grains. It is well known that corn which is well stored in a shock and left until the snow flies before being husked and cribbed is much better and keeps better than that which is husked and cribbed early in the fall. The lateness of the harvest prevents more people following this plan.

Another interesting feature about the buying and selling of corn is the fact that the farmers want prices by the bushel. Generally the local dealers sell by the pound and in making prices must figure from that standard.

In many towns and cities throughout the country corn is bought from the farmers by the pound and the price is quoted on the scale of 100 pounds. In Delaware county, however, the movement has partially failed simply because every farmer that is given a bid on the basis of the pound buying wants to know how much a bushel that would be. The farmer reckons by bushels and does not get out of the old channel in measurement. As there is no use in keeping two sets of quotations the local dealers have given over the buying by the hundred weight and are quoting bushel prices. This makes much more work in figuring out the amount of checks but it saves time in not having to answer queries.

The prospect for corn this fall is looking slightly darker than it has for some time. The qualities of the corn cut and shocked is good enough but the late rains have penetrated to the middle of these shocks and there are many shocks which have spoiled. The stalks have turned black and the ears grown soggy with good chances of becoming entirely spoiled before it can be gathered and put in a dry place. However, the farmers are not badly alarmed about the outlook and are going ahead with other work, biding their time in harvesting King Corn.

CONSERVATION

SESSION PLANS

Governor Marshall Decides to Call Session in Indianapolis For Saturday, October 28.

PROMINENT MEN WILL SPEAK

Movement May Result in Moving of Headquarters of National Body to Indiana.

After consultation with men prominent in conservation advocacy throughout the state, Governor Marshall decided to call an Indiana Conservation Congress, to be held probably at the Claypool Hotel Oct. 28. The date is the anniversary of the founding of the Indiana branch of the national organization and the movement may result in moving the headquarters of the national body to Indiana. Soil, coal, oil, gas, water power and public health will be some of the things discussed. Among the visitors expected are Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, government chemist, and Walter Fisher, secretary of the interior.

Governor Marshall will preside at the congress. Other speakers, some of them of national prominence, will attend, it is said, Indiana sections of the national body in charge of the arrangements for the big meeting but Governor Marshall's official stamp of sanction has been placed on it.

The meandered streams of northern Indiana swamp regions will figure strongly in the discussions, according to the Governor. He has been interested for some time in the question of the State's rights in regard to much of the land in certain swamp districts in northern Indiana, where under an old decision of the courts, it is said to have been possible for private individuals to take possession of large tracts of land in way declared to be almost "squatter sovereignty."

The Governor and other state officials believe much of that land is property of the state, and the Governor will take up the question at the conservation meeting. Prominent persons in the state engaged in the mining, farming and shipping industries probably will be called into the conference, along with such men as H. E. Barnard, chemist of the State Board of Health; L. Ert Slack of Franklin; William Holton Dye, president of the Indiana branch of the national organization; mayors of cities, county superintendents and city superintendents of schools. The latter officials may be asked to send representatives if they do not attend in person.

An effort will be made to select the delegates uniformly from the various portions of the state, and, though the congress will be open to all those really interested in conservation of natural resources, the meeting probably will not be open to the general public.

The Indiana section of the national body will be consulted by the Governor in making his selection of delegates. The State Federation of Clubs probably will be asked to send members, and other organizations of similar character may be decided upon as eligible to the representation.

Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health, will be asked to take charge of the public health part of the program. Much of the connection between the congress and public health work lies in the question of the pollution of Indiana streams, and that problem will be discussed.

That the congress will lead to other similar meetings in the state or perhaps to a more compact state organization for the conservation of natural resources is freely predicted by leaders in the movement.

MARKED REVIVAL

IN STATE FRUIT

Fruit Growers.

Clifton Nete Pleasing to Sounding of Call "Back to Soil"

LARGE COMPANIES FORMED

Nov. 6, Note Change.

Promoting Apple Show For Members of Horticultural Society.

The members of the Indiana Horticultural Society who are promoting the state Apple Show for the week of Nov. 6, in Indianapolis, say that the revival of interests in orchards over the state has been remarkable in the last few years. Large companies have been formed to invest in fruit lands, others are organizing to develop orchard tracts, still others are going in for the business of fruit growing on extensive scale, and in practically every neighborhood of every county, old orchards which had been permitted to go to decay are being replanted. Not only are old orchards being restored and new ones being planted, but there are signs everywhere that Indiana is rapidly moving up in the list of apple producing states. This progress is expected to be still more marked as education on the subject is spread by the State Apple Show and similar mediums.

The members of the society say that the day of the apple specialist is here. The old plea that pests and diseases had ruined the orchards is not now accepted, because scientific research, the discovery of sprays and the invention of appliances have placed in the hands of the grower weapons that are driving out the orchard enemies and permitting the production of high grade fruit.

It is evident, too, that apple growing, as a business is starting on a substantial basis, with a market at home and good shipping facilities to city markets. Years ago the orchard was only a sideline to general farming. Now many men and companies are making apple growing their chief source of revenue, and the growers have found it possible to reap goodly profits where they follow cultural and marketing methods along intelligent lines. Not only are farm people going in for apple production with assurance that fruit of high quality will always find a ready demand, but the business is proving an attractive field of investment for city people of a means.

Everywhere the old discouraging conditions are giving away to optimism and diligent study of orchard questions. This revival of interest prevails, with glowing prospects for the future, prevails to wide degree is evident at Purdue University, at Lafayette, where the horticultural department has more inquiries on sprays in a week that four years ago were received in a month. The manufacturers of spray pumps and similar appliances say that last spring their sales in Indiana were from 50 to 500 per cent. greater than for the same period of last year.

That apple growing was the last ten years on a decline was shown by the fact that the pests were able to keep ahead of the spray pumps but this order has been permanently reversed, and the prophet of horticulture say that Indiana is going to move forward for years to come, or until the state becomes an unrivaled land for apples. The sounding of the call "Back to the soil" is a clarion note that is particularly pleasing to those who are interested in fruit. The success of growers in the Pacific Northwest has been another factor in quickening the interest here in Indiana. In city, town and county the habit of eating apples is growing among the people, this increasing demand for the choicest fruit, and altogether the present holds bright promise to orchard owners where they are sending to market a product of the right quality.

Women Painted Them at $500 Each. Ready For Hanging.

Oil paintings of all the speakers of the house of representatives will soon be hanging in the lobby of the house at Washington. Portraits of many of the speakers have been acquired in various ways, but last winter a resolution was adopted for the painting in oils of portraits of the eighteen speakers not so immortalized. Sixteen of these pictures are now ready, and the other two will soon be. This will complete the list, with the exception of Speaker Cannon, who presided when the resolution was adopted, and Speaker Clark, who has served since then. Steps have already been taken to procure their pictures also.

Frank D. Millet, secretary of the fine arts committee, has passed on the portraits. A price of $500 a picture was decided on as the charge, and four women were among the candidates for the awards. They are Ellen Day Hale, daughter of the late Rev. Edward Everett Hale; Rebecca Polk, a descendant of Speaker Polk; Lucy M. Stanton, a descendant of Speaker Stanton, and Kate F. Edwards, a descendant of Speaker Cobb.

Don't Kindle A Fire Every Morning This Winter

Ever get up on a cold morning and find the fire in your Base Burner all dead around the edges---a dim red spot of fire in the center? The house was chilly, and it was a mighty disagreeable job to get up a good fire with only a few live coals to start it with.

You will never have any trouble like that with a FAVORITE BASE BURNER. The Favorite will hold fire longer and more evenly than any other Base Burner made. It will keep the temperature in your home even, day and night. When you wake in the morning your house will be as warm as when you went to bed.

You'll find the reason in the flues and perfect fitting of the Favorite. Every door, joint and frame is paper tight.

The Favorite has held fire continuously for five successive days and nights without going out. Let us explain why the Favorite will save you full one-half in fuel bills and throw out more heat.

Halloween Tricks.

The halloween festival, which used to be celebrated largely by maidens anxious to learn their future husbands, and by bobbing for apples and other games suited to the kiddies, has of late been seized upon by the Small Boy as an excuse for various depredations. In many places conservative citizens find it prudent to place gates and other movable property under lock and key.

The ordinary pater familias looks abroad at the growing tendency to crime in high and low places. He often feels that his offspring has achieved something rather glorious if the boy avoids committing any crime on account of which the community finds it more economical to board him at public expense than to permit him to remain at large. Hence he often makes light of these minor ravages by the cub element to his family.

To Young America, the man who objects to the burning of gates and chicken coops and the stealing of signs, seems terribly deficient in humor.

Still it does seem as if one ought to be able to lodge a protest against the destruction of things that cost time, thought and money, without being considered to lack sympathy with young people and to be growing old.

Some more Carnegie heroes get medals, but we know of several men who have endured without a murmur the pangs of fall house cleaning without any public recognition.

Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas may have planted his 11 size hob-nailed brogans on the trust octopus, but when his bride orders him to wear his slippers in the house he will probably do so without a murmur.

Attention is called to the many unhappy marriages among novelists. Our experience is that when a newspaper man becomes a journalist his morals suffer, and when he graduates into the novelist's profession, his downfall is complete.

While coffee is high, some people may go without their breakfast appetizer, but a turn at the wood pile will serve the same purpose at the same old price.

If the trusts had been willing to fill up the great American dinner pail with something more satisfying than watered stock, there would not be the present unrest.

Governor Marshall has been on a shopping expedition, and the Indianapolis Star inquires: Has Governor Marshall ever investigated the bargain possibilities of Indianapolis stores? Governor Marshall is a free trader who believes conscientiously that nothing should be bought at home that can be purchased abroad, is the Marion Chronicle's comment.

News dispatches announce that LaFollette will make two speeches in Indiana after November 15th—one at Indianapolis and one at Richmond. No doubt LaFollette thinks Indiana needs looking after, as this State was not represented at his recent convention in Chicago. Indiana Republicans (except those at Richmond) are for Taft and LaFollette will get the "marble heart" in this commonwealth.

A city may pass an ordinance compelling women to remove their hats while attending a public entertainment. The courts have so decided. And in deciding the case, one court took occasion to say that "Nothing more irritable disturbs or interferes with the comfort of an audience attending the theaters or moving picture shows than those large hats worn by ladies, which in many cases completely obstructs the view of the performance."

The court was speaking authoritatively for only one state, but it is believed that all other states will be governed thereby in decisions, since this particular court made it plain that the suppression of the hat was wholly within the police powers of a municipality.

There is not a great deal of complaint about women's hats in this city. Most of the show places require women to remove their hats, and the women have complied freely with the requirements. But occasionally at some place where the authorities have not decreed the removal of the hat, the women still wear them, greatly to the discomfort of persons sitting behind them. This is especially true of the churches, where the whole matter has been left to the women themselves. Only a few of our ministers have had the temerity to advise the women of the congregation that great deal of spiritual damage may be done by the wearing of the exaggerated head decoration.

So it is well, now and then, to call attention to this annoyance, for there are many women who have only to be advised that they are creating a nuisance in order to induce them to abate it.

It was said at the headquarters of the insurgent politicians in session at Chicago that Indiana and Michigan had shown less interest in the movement than any other states in the union, comments the Muncie Press. It does look as if two years of agitation by the Indianapolis Sun and Richmond Palladium ought to have resulted in the attendance of a delegate or two.

Among the demagogues and kickers on society we hear a great deal about "special privileges," says the Peru Journal. It is quite the thing to charge every man who is more successful than ourselves with enjoying some "special privileges" on the part of the government. The expression is employed so often that no doubt a great portion of the population, that portion of it which is "easily fooled all the time," takes it for granted that it is true. But notwithstanding all the use that is made of this catch phrase there is not a bit of truth in it. This is not a country of special privileges. Under our laws and under our system of government nobody has any rights or privileges not accorded to everybody else. * * * The special privilege which brings wealth and station comes from a higher power and consists of a variety of human attributes, all of which may be summed up in this—the ability to surpass others in the race life. For instance, many years ago there was no exclusive right or "special privileges" granted to Mr. Carnegie to go into the steel business or to Mr. Rockefeller to deal in oil. The demagogues and smart editors who are so incensed at the success which these men have attained should not blame the nation or its laws. If they seek to lay the responsibility they must lay it upon the Creator who endowed men with the ability to do, or gave them birth amid suitable environment or enabled them with talent and graces, executive and social, calculated to win success. Every man in the country had the government franchise to enter the steel business at the same time, and even before Mr. Carnegie had his. Everybody had a license to go into the plate glass and tin plate business at the same time Mr. Leeds had his. The only special privileges under the law that we know of in this country are those created by the Democratic dealers to deal out a harmful commodity to their fellow men. But in the great industrial world to which the demagogues and politicians refer there has never been a special privilege created, unless we may concern the issue in the case of rewards for the building of early railroads. In the political world there is a perfect equality. Before our laws one man is as good as another and each has every privilege accorded to the other. If he can not appropriate that privilege and another can, surely it is not the laws of congress nor of the state that must be held responsible.

Monthly magazines of the muckraking class are not enjoying the high tide of popularity and prosperity that was theirs a few years ago. At one time the circulation of Everybody's was enormous and its advertising business of the voluminous kind that causes grief to economical Postmaster General Hitchcock when he figures on the weight of the mails and the low rate of postage. But though Everybody's is still an excellent magazine of a kind, the features that won its success ceased to attract readers, and some time ago its independent existence ended and it was sold to a publishing house that issues several periodicals. In short, it was merged.

The American Magazine, cleverly edited and with some distinctive features, also passed out of the hands of its founders and is an attachment of a book publishing house. McClure's, the ablest of its class, and supposed to have been on a solid financial basis, has likewise been merged, book publishing and a woman's magazine henceforth being connected with it. Hampton's Magazine, which started with a great flourish and entered upon a sensational "reform" and "exposure" campaign, has fallen upon worse days than the others and has come to distinct grief.

In the days of its seeming prosperity it made enticing offers of stock to investors who might wish to share its good fortune in the shape of big dividends and to help enlarge its scope of usefulness. Evidently it found confiding patrons, for recently, when it united itself with the Columbian Magazine, and the original Hampton stock seemed to have been "merged" out of sight and knowledge, several dissatisfied creditors brought suit, with the result that the united concern now has a receiver.

One cause for the decline of the popularity of these periodicals is doubtless the fact that the public became weary of their continuous tales of corruption here, of graft there, of fraud in another quarter, of general "cussedness" among men of high places. The average American citizen is a man of intelligence and a sense of proportion. In the long run he was able to extract the kernel of truth that was in the most of these "exposing" articles and to discount the exaggeration, but the tales grew monotonous and depressing, and he instinctively turned away from them to more cheerful reading.

Another reason that, without doubt, caused a loss of interest in this class of magazines is that their readers presently realized that what they were getting was, for the most part, merely amplified accounts of what had already appeared in the newspapers. There was never anything really new in the so-called disclosures of the muckraking magazines; their sensational stories were based on facts or statements already given to the public in another form in the daily press. When this truth dawned upon the readers interest waned. A sameness of mental diet is as bad for the human system as a single food for the body. The daily papers supply all that is needed in the way of information as to public affairs; from their magazines people need pabulum of another sort—literature for which papers have no space, discussion and essays dealing with all topics of human interest, fiction, poetry, all forms of writing that afford intellectual stimulus and entertainment. The magazine must occupy another field than that of the newspaper, which is already filled.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have for their Saturday night's program a Bison film entitled "Generous Cowboys." It is a comedy, the scenes of which are laid in the West. The other is a Champion film, "The Exchange." This is said to be a good war drama, showing many thrilling scenes.

A sensation followed the announcement that Paul Wilstach, author of "The Life of Richard Mansfield," and associated with the famous actor for eight years during his tours of America, had written a drama based on "Thais" which will be seen for the first time in Indianapolis at the English opera house on October 23, 24, 25, 26, under the management of Jos. M. Gaites, with Miss Constance Collier in the name part.

Mr. Wilstach has closely followed the scenes as they appear in the novel. Anatole France, one of the greatest of living literary workers, is the author of the novel, which became the basis for the opera by Jules E. F. Massenet, which achieved such popularity in this country when sung by Miss Mary Garden.

The book is a magnificent piece of literature, and the opera has many things to relieve it of harsh criticism and much that is truly beautiful.

"Thais" is a story showing the anchorites of the ancient Theban desert. The piece takes its name from a beautiful creature, as sinful as she is beautiful. There comes to her a hermit who seeks to convert her from her wicked life. He preaches and prays and endures the temptations that befel Parsifal. Finally he yields but when he comes thoroughly under the influence of "Thais," and has lost his soul, she suddenly awakens to the new life, has heard his teachings and pleadings, and goes to the "White Sisters" on the African shore of the Mediterranean.

Mr. Gaites in addition to Miss Collier, has engaged Tyrone Power to appear in the part of the hermit, and Julian L'Estrange to play the part of Nicias the favorite lover.

"Thais" is produced with a wonderfully beautiful scenic investiture and will be the treat of the theatrical season. Matinee will be given on Wednesday.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention, if they contain certified check, postal or express order, payable to Theatre. If parties desire ticket mailed, self-addressed envelope must accompany order, thus avoiding possibility of error. Special attention will be given to all out of town orders. Special round trip excursion rates will be given on all railroads. For information regarding fares and schedules of trains consult local ticket agents.

Chronic cases have demanded a greater part of the time of physicians. With the number of contagious diseases at a minimum, there has been only the usual run of minor complaints and city and county health officers have good reason to feel satisfied over the showing.

CHARIVARI CROWD.

Milroy was the scene of an exciting charivari Thursday evening when a jolly crowd of young folks went to pay their respects to the new bride and groom, Claude Crane and wife. After some time of noisemaking the visitors came across a sack of peanuts on the porch and concluded it was meant as a treat for them so took it. As it happened, the peanuts were samples sent from the South and not even roasted.

lookout for it as he came to the city.

On arriving at the college he telephoned the bank officials of the discovery, and the latter requested that an effort be made to keep people away from the car. It was the intention to put bloodhounds on the track of the men in Indianapolis.

The bank at New Palestine is the best dividend paying bank in Hancock county, paying 24 per cent in dividends last year. The bank's business did not suffer from the robbery of last December.

Cordia Martin of Greenfield was convicted in the Marion county criminal court of the last robbery, but he recently was granted a new trial by the supreme court, for the reason that he should have been tried in Hancock county, where the crime was committed. Vance Deery, also of Greenfield, confessed taking part in the robbery and is serving an indeterminate term at the Jeffersonville reformatory.

Disease epidemics have been of minor importance, at first causing some alarm, but soon wiped out under energetic efforts of the health officer. An unusual feature of the situation has been the lack of typhoid fever cases in any great number. During September there was a single case and thus far in October only two have been reported. This is becoming a rural disease because of the fact that better attention can be paid to water supplies in cities. Nevertheless Rush county has fared well

OPEN SEASON FOR BURNING LEAVES

City Ordinance Provides They Shall be Cremated Between Hours of 6 a. m. and 2 p. m.

THAT IS VIOLATED OFTEN

There's very little fodder in the shock and no frost has shown up on the pumpkin yet, but the open season for burning leaves is here and it must be remembered that there is a certain ordinance to regulate the practice which is in vogue. The leaves are falling despite the fact that no frost has fallen. The weather man has been predicting frost night after night and still none of it has appeared around here. When Jack does arrive the leaves will fall much faster and soon the trees of the city will be as jagged scarecrows.

Something has to be done with the leaves that fall and most Rushville people cremate them. They could be buried, they could be hauled away and they could be left on yards for fertilizer. But as has been said most people burn them. This being the custom it behooves leaf burners to remember that a city ordinance has something to do with this proposition. The ordinance provides that leaves may be burned between the hours of six o'clock a. m. and two o'clock p. m. People who burn their leaves before or after those hours are liable for fines and costs. Nothing smokes much worse than a bunch of damp leaves and no smoke seems to hurt the eyes and nose like the smoke coming from a mound of tree clothes. However, all this must be endured because people will burn their leaves and the sooner they do it the quicker. Incidentally it might be mentioned that burning leaves on the paved streets is not considered good taste. And in addition to that it burns holes in the streets and gets the leaf burner into all sorts of trouble.

If you had never been inside any store in this city you would be able to decide where to go by reading the store ads in this paper.

WALLINGFORD OUTDONE BY A SOUTH BEND MAN

Charged With Unloading "Auto Water" On Victim.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 21.—Testifying at the trial of Frank de la Claire, manufacturing chemist, in court here, Raymond W. French of Adams county, told of what is said to be a most unusual swindle. De la Claire is charged with grand larceny. French, who is a farmer, says he was persuaded by the South Bend man to furnish money to manufacture an alleged "nonfreezing auto water." Although autoists generally have more or less trouble keeping the water in their cars from boiling, French says de la Claire argued to him that the water usually freezes and that his process would prevent this taking place.

The witness said he had no money, but was persuaded to dispose of a farm and invest the proceeds of $3,300. He said de la Claire appropriated the money to his own use and charges the whole thing was a swindle.

WAGE INCREASE

This Will Be the Basis of Tom Lewis's Platform in Coming Campaign.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 21.—T. L. Lewis, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, who has been announced as a candidate for reelection, said here that a part of his platform before the next international convention at Indianapolis would be a demand for an increase in the rates for mining. He said the miners would ask $1 a ton for pick mined coal and 75 cents a ton for machine work. Present rates are 95 cents and 55½ cents respectively.

Encroached on Game Preserves. Quincy, Ill., Oct. 21.—L. K. Cushing of Chicago was fined $10 and costs by Judge Akers here on a charge of violating an injunction of the circuit court prohibiting hunting by nonmembers on the private game preserves of the Sanson club, in Cass county, on the Illinois river. Mr. Cushing, it is said, encroached upon the grounds and shot a number of ducks before he was driven off.

NEW CANCER CURE.

Burning the Affected Tissues Is Latest Hope, Physicians Say.

Members of the American Electrotherapeutic Association, at their convention held in Philadelphia, witnessed an operation which, it is declared, will make possible a certain cancer cure if performed in time.

Method was entirely new, and the operation was witnessed by fifty or more physicians. The theory is to burn the tissues affected and thus prevent the further spread of the disease. A strong electric current through steel needles dipped in zinc was employed. The zinc undergoes a chemical change when the electric current is applied and emits a chemical that destroys the parts to which it is applied. This leaves nothing but a burn to be cured.

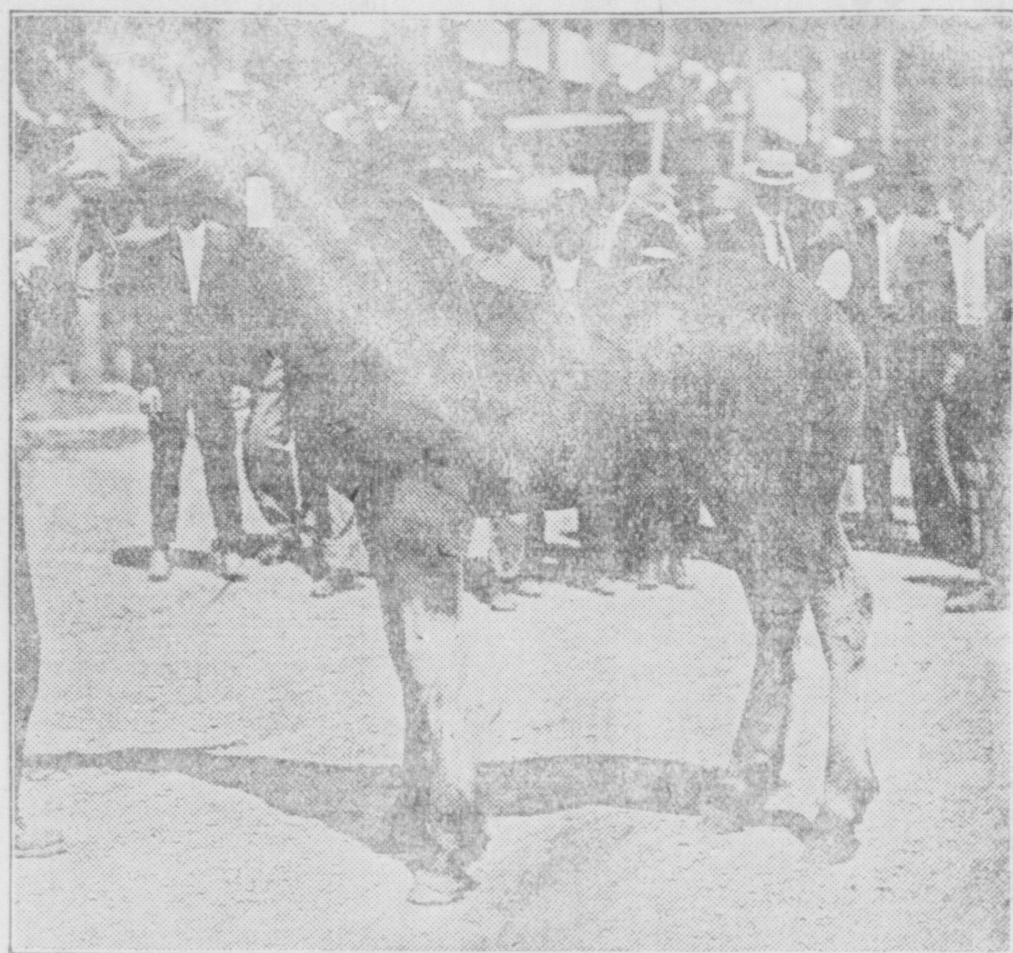

CAT CAME BACK.

Made Trip of a Hundred Miles Between Illinois Cities in Eight Days.

The old adage about the cat coming back has been exemplified by a four-month-old Maltese kitten owned by Edward Giffel of Carlyle, Ill. The kitten traveled more than a hundred miles in eight days, reaching its native home, which establishes a record. Mr. and Mrs. Giffel formerly made their home nine miles north of Bridgeport, more than a hundred miles east of Carlyle. A few weeks ago they removed to Carlyle. Giffel took the kitten along. The cat was disappeared and finally mysteriously disappeared. Giffel received a telegram in answer to a letter of inquiry from the kitten's old home announcing its safe arrival there.

FEEDING THE COLT

By Prof. W. W. SMITH, Animal Husbandry Department, Purdue School of Agriculture
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

Feed the Foal So as to Produce Plenty of High Quality Bone, Muscle and Nerves.

Our object in the feeding and care of the colt should be to secure a sturdy body, hard, strong bone, and an active, vigorous disposition. In other words, we want the largest and strongest development possible at maturity. Without the liberal use of suitable feeds in combination with sensible care and management this result will be impossible.

To stimulate rapid growth and the strongest development, the young colt should be given the opportunity of eating dry food at an early age. When one month old he will usually exhibit an interest in his mother's feed box at meal time. A good way to encourage the colt to eat is to place the mother's feed box low enough for the youngster to reach. In a short time his capacity will demand a separate trough and an individual ration.

The demands of the colt are largely for bone and muscle and nerve building material. It is impossible to grow tough feet, flinty bone, and strong elastic muscle upon corn and timothy hay alone, especially when exercise and pastures are not what they should be. Prior to weaning the maximum supply of the mother's milk should be sought by judgment in her work and a plentiful supply of good oats and a little bran. If the energies of the mother are conserved as much as possible and if she is naturally a good milker we have the most important conditions for rapid growth in the colt. Add to this about all the oats the colt will clean up twice or three times a day, with access to a grass paddock, and the results should be most favorable. Corn should be fed in very small quantities, if at all. It tends more to fattening than to growth. The best results are usually obtained when oats, bran and timothy hay constitute the main reliance. In the absence of bran a handful of oil meal will be found very desirable. A little salt should be supplied two or three times per week, or better still, made constantly accessible.

The amount of grain to supply the colt before and after weaning should be determined by the appetite and condition of the colt. No more should be given than will be cleaned up promptly. No harm will come from allowing the young colt hay at will, though it is usually wise to limit this part of the ration when older, especially if he has a tendency to overgorge.

Liberal grain feeding should be continued until the colt is well established on pasture the succeeding summer. Grain is never used more profitably than when fed to a well-bred colt. Good feeding alone, however, will never develop the best in any young animal. This is especially true of the colt. Judicious feeding must be supplemented by abundant exercise, with clean, sanitary conditions, to guarantee the well-balanced development of bone, "wind" and muscle—the essential things in a good horse of whatever class or type.

How to Start a Successful Co-operative Creamery

By H. C. MILLS, Dairy Department, Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

A Successful Cooperative Creamery.

The successful organization of a cooperative creamery should not start with the selling of stock, but with an accurate cow census. It should be determined by those interested in the success of the creamery how many cows can be depended upon to furnish milk for the creamery when started. The creamery should not be started unless between 350 and 400 dairy cows are available.

The location of the community with respect to large dairy markets should be considered. If located within shipping distance of city milk plants or large private creameries, the success of the cooperative creamery may be doubtful. In fact, the cooperative creamery is really unnecessary in such cases because the competition of two private creameries will insure the highest price possible.

If a sufficient number of cows are available and the creamery seems to be needed, the next step is the selling of the stock. A dairymen's picnic or meeting may be held and some successful farmers or members of the dairy department of the experiment station asked to explain the advantages of the creamery and of dairy farming. At this meeting a committee may be appointed for selling stock. When sufficient stock is sold, a meeting of stockholders may be held and officers elected. The officers should be elected because of business ability along dairy lines.

The manager should be a man knowing something about creamery operation, if possible, and in a position to give much of his time to creamery work. The manager should be allowed to visit other creameries at the company's expense, and learn how they are run.

The buttermaker should next be secured, and much depends upon his selection. He can best be secured through the assistance of a dairy school. An efficient man should be secured, although a higher salary must be paid than for some one with fewer recommendations. The buttermaker may assist in the planning and building of the creamery and the purchasing of the creamery machinery.

Cooperation of stockholders and patrons of the creamery should be secured by occasional creamery picnics and dairy meetings. Every stockholder should be made to feel that his help is needed and that a part of the creamery belongs to him. The success of the creamery depends upon hearty cooperation, which can only be secured where the farming community is composed of courteous, neighborly people.

TROOPS BEAT A HASTY RETREAT

Republicans Win Victory On Hankow Field.

EVEN DROVE GUN BOATS OFF

Imperialists Were Decisively Defeated in a Brisk Battle and Revolutionists Push Their Success on to Other Fields in Hope of Blocking Progress of the Emperor's Troops Southward Toward the Scene of Uprising.

Pekin, Oct. 21.—The telegraph wires are cut south of Kwangshui. The imperialists were defeated in the fighting of Wednesday and Thursday around Hankow. There is a rebel movement afoot to outflank two imperialist troops. The republicans are endeavoring to capture Kwangshui, as the success of the plan would mean the occupation of the important passes, thus blocking the progress southward of the imperialist troops on the Hankow & Peking railroad. The government has ordered 25,000 more troops sent to the front. The runs on the native banks continue and trade is at a standstill.

Klukiang, Oct. 21.—The revolutionists, who are in possession of the imperialists' camp, gained a decisive victory in Thursday's fighting. The Chinese warships have withdrawn down the Yangtze river, the crews having become strongly disaffected. The casualties in the engagement were slight, but immense fires were caused by the shells in Hankow.

Hitherto the rebel forces have been victorious and hold the field. On Wednesday they forced the imperialists to fall back upon their camp. In the afternoon the Chinese gunboats made a move and opened fire, but fired wide. At night the republicans were reinforced and took a strong position. Five thousand strong they advanced upon the imperialists' camp. The resistance was small. The gunboats, after a few ineffective shots, became mere onlookers. The imperialists' camp was deserted when the republicans came up, but the rebels, suspecting a ruse, fired in all directions and then pushed on quickly and entered the camp.

Finding the camp deserted, the skirmishers shouted and the main body, with banners, came up jubilant. The rebels at once set about trenching the camp, which is three miles from Hankow. The loyalists are reported at a place seven miles further off.

During the fighting at Hankow the Red Cross started to work with Chinese helpers for the first time in history. Parties were stationed near the scene of action. Organization for actual work in the field is not yet completed and the Red Cross has not secured recognition from the imperialist leaders, consequently many wounded imperialists were left on the field and subsequently killed and mutilated by civilian sympathizers of the revolt. The foreign nurses are staying to take care of the wounded, although the consuls have advised them to leave. The mission hospitals have been made Red Cross stations.

DIDN'T CATCH ON

Detectives Were on Train That Was Robbed in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 21.—One of the boldest train robberies ever perpetrated in this section occurred near this city when a freight train on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was robbed under the noses of two special detectives. The train was proceeding from Louisville to Lexington. When near a small station between this city and Frankfort several men appeared from the side of the road and boarded it. They entered a car containing merchandise and began throwing off boxes. The boxes were picked up by other men who followed the train with a horse and wagon. Finally trainmen gave the alarm and the detectives, who were in a caboose, rushed out. They were too late, however, as the robbers had leaped from the car and made off in the darkness.

Young Civil Engineer Killed. Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 21.—Thomas M. Becket, a graduate of the Purdue class of 1911, was struck by a passenger train on the Monon railroad at Cedar Lake and instantly killed. Becket, who was a civil engineer, was a member of a surveying corps of the Monon railroad, and was at work with a transit on a curve at Cedar Lake.

Captain Usher Promoted. Washington, Oct. 21.—Captain Nathaniel R. Usher, U. S. N., of Vincennes, Ind., successfully passed his examination for promotion, and was commissioned a rear admiral. He will be assigned to the second vacancy occurring in the divisions of the Atlantic fleet.

Battle Lasted Twelve Hours. Rome, Oct. 21.—An official statement says the fighting at Bengazi lasted twelve hours. The Italians captured twenty-one guns. It is officially admitted that the losses were heavy, but no figures are given.

CATARRH OF STOMACH

Indigestion and Stomach Agony Quickly Ended.

If you went to thirty doctors and paid each his fee for a prescription for indigestion or stomach misery it is ten chances to one you wouldn't get such a good prescription as the one from which MI-O-NA stomach tablets are made.

How can such a thing be? you naturally ask.

Simply because the man who wrote the prescription from which MI-O-NA tablets are made knows more about stomach diseases than 96 per cent. of all the physicians in America, and he gets paid for knowing.

And when you can get a large box of tablets made from this doctor's prescription for only 50 cents, are you going to continue to suffer? Sold by F. B. Johnson & Co. and druggists everywhere.

Rev. Richeson, a Popular Young Baptist Minister, Engaged to Two Girls, Found His Wedding Day Approaching, and Police Charge That First Love Was Put Out of the Way to Avoid Possible Entanglement.

Boston, Oct. 21.—Upon the charge of murdering Miss Avis Linnell of Hyannisport, a former sweetheart, Clarence Thompson Richeson, an ordained clergyman of the Baptist denomination, thirty-one years old and pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, is locked in a cell at the Charles street jail and will remain there until Oct. 31, when he will be given a hearing in the municipal court.

Richeson is charged with furnishing a nineteen-year-old girl to whom he is said to have been engaged to be married and who in the course of six months' time would have become a mother, with cyanide of potassium. The inference is that he told her that by taking the deadly drug she would bring about a desired change in her physical condition, when in reality he furnished the cyanide, deceiving the girl as to the nature of its effect, for the express purpose of causing her death so that no entanglement might exist which could possibly prevent his marriage to Miss Violet Edmonds of Brookline, whose father is a millionaire.

Minister Bought Deadly Drug.

It is hard to conceive of a clergyman of any faith committing a capital crime, but it is more inconceivable to imagine that a minister of the gospel could go to a druggist and with the purpose of murdering a young girl upmost in his mind, say to the man from whom he purchased the deadly cyanide: "I want to kill a dog that is going to have pups," and then when the transaction is concluded, invite the druggist to attend the wedding which was to be made possible by the killing of Miss Linnell. That was the remark Richeson is alleged to have made to William Han, a Newton Center druggist, with whom he became acquainted when a student at the Newton Theological seminary, on the night of Oct. 10, when he visited the druggist and secured the poison.

Miss Linnell was living at home in Hyannisport when Richeson became pastor of the Hyannis Baptist church in 1909. It was his first pastorate. Among those who worshipped at the church was Avis Linnell. She was a pretty girl and a student at the normal school in the town. The youthful and good-looking clergyman paid her marked attention, and it soon became understood that the couple were engaged. Avis showed a diamond ring which the clergyman gave her. Richeson became pastor of the Cambridge church in June, 1910, having supplied the pulpit for several weeks and his eloquence winning the congregation.

Engaged to Another.

After Richeson left Hyannis to come to Cambridge, and upon his recommendation the girl came to Boston to study music at the New England conservatory. She roomed and boarded at the Young Women's Christian association, where the minister frequently saw her. Last spring, when Richeson's engagement to Miss Edmonds, daughter of Moses G. Edmonds, a wealthy resident of the Chestnut Hill section of Brookline, was announced, much astonishment was expressed by Miss Linnell's friends in Boston and at Hyannis. They noticed that she no longer wore her engagement ring, but she explained by saying that Richeson had taken it to a jeweler to be cleaned and reset. Mrs. Linnell says that Richeson denied to her within a few days that he was engaged to Miss Edmonds, and expressed his love for Avis. She believed him. Richeson is said to have taken Miss Linnell out to lunch frequently, and the day before she died was at the South station talking earnestly with him, according to a railroad employee who knew them both.

Girl Found Dying.

On Saturday night Miss Linnell appeared in a happy frame of mind at her lodgings. Her associates at the Y. W. C. A. say that after supper she went to her room. A short time afterward heavy breathing was heard in a bathroom. The door was forced by some of the young women and Miss Linnell was found unconscious in a chair with her feet and ankles immersed in hot water. Miss Patterson, superintendent of the association, had Dr. Mary Hobart summoned. The latter took one look at the girl and then said: "Where is her fiancée? Get him here at once. This is the place for him." A few minutes later Miss Linnell was dead. Richeson was called on the telephone and notified of the girl's death, but declined to go to the Y. W. C. A., remarking that he did not know why he should be called in the matter.

On Sunday night Richeson went to the home of Miss Edmonds, his fiancée, in Brookline, and there he remained in seclusion. When the police secured the clue of Richeson having purchased cyanide of potassium, the minister was arrested. When asked if he had anything to say in reply to the charge, being first warned of his rights, Richeson replied that he did not care to make any statement. A warrant was secured charging the clergyman with murder in the first degree, and Richeson was locked up.

WARRANT OUT FOR ASSOCIATE OF HINES

Senatorial Campaign Ambassador Wanted By Committee.

Milwaukee, Oct. 21.—With instructions that he be brought to Milwaukee, a bench warrant for the arrest of Robert J. Shields was ordered issued by the senatorial committee which is investigating the election of Senator Isaac Stephenson.

Shields's name has been repeatedly called, but he has failed to respond. Word came that he had completed his testimony before the Lorimer investigating committee in Chicago, and was on his way to Milwaukee, but Senator Heyburn, the chairman, nevertheless, ordered the bench warrant issued.

Shields is wanted following testimony by several witnesses that he was active in Senator Stephenson's behalf. Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris testified he and four other witnesses heard that Shields was employed by Edward Hines, the lumberman, to "put over" Stephenson's election.

MEN HIGHER UP NOW INDICTED

Brown-Ketcham Plant Officials
Accused of Embezzlement.

CHARGE SYSTEMATIC ROBBERY

Indictments at Indianapolis Accuse Officials of Big Iron Plant Which Recently Went into the Hands of a Receiver of Having Deliberately Looted the Plant by Diverting Its Proceeds—Five Are Now Indicted.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—The Marion county grand jury has indicted William H. Brown, president of the Brown-Ketcham iron works; John L. Ketcham, secretary-treasurer of the company; William R. Brown, superintendent; Frank J. Vinson, former auditor, and Harry B. Holliday, former paymaster. The indictments were returned as a result of an investigation of the affairs of the Brown-Ketcham company, which is now in the hands of a receiver pending bankruptcy proceedings in the federal court.

The technical charge against the two Browns is "receiving embezzled goods," the offense, according to the charge, being receiving checks from the secretary-treasurer, in drawing which he was guilty of embezzlement. The charge against the others is embezzlement.

Frank J. Vinson was arrested last July on charges of embezzlement and was bound over to the grand jury. He was released under bond. Holliday was arrested several weeks later and was also bound over to the grand jury on similar charges. The men were charged with stealing thousands of dollars which belonged to the company. In making a preliminary investigation of the Vinson and Holliday cases, the grand jury discovered evidence which it thought warranted a complete investigation of the affairs of the company.

A report of the financial condition of the company, after it went into the hands of a receiver last spring, made to Frank D. Stalnaker, receiver, showed that the men "higher up" drew more than $50,000 in overdrafts from the money of the firm. The report showed that William H. Brown had drawn about $12,000 and John L. Ketcham about $31,000, and that they were indebted to the firm for those amounts.

PRACTICAL WORK

Will Be Required of Aspirants For Forestry Board Prizes.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—Pupils who wish to compete for prizes offered by the state board of forestry for essays during the current school year will be compelled to take to the woods and fields for their data, according to a decision reached by the board. The conditions of the prizes last year were such that the essays could be written from circulars and books, and the papers failed to show to the board a sufficient acquaintance with the actual areas. The rules of the essays this year will require study of growing trees.

Four prizes of $1 each are offered. Two will go to the city schools and two to the country schools. Of these, two will go to high school pupils and two to grade school pupils.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—Henry A. It is said he was despondent because he had not been successful. Rehling leaves a wife and daughter.

Confessed Thirteen Forgeries.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 21.—Trembling from the effects of drugs and liquor, William J. Seifert, once a trusted official of the Studebaker corporation, broke down in court and confessed to thirteen forgeries. With tears streaming down his face, Seifert attributed his downfall to the use of drugs and liquor. Seifert was arrested on the complaint of the Merchants' National bank for the forgery of a small check. The other forgeries were first revealed in the man's confession.

An Arrest Is Expected.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—Believing that the derailing of the Pennsylvania mail train, resulting in the death of George C. McGrew, engineer, and injury to seven other trainmen Thursday night, just west of the Pleasant run bridge, in Irvington, was the work of a train wrecker, city and railroad detectives have begun an investigation which is expected to result in an arrest.

May Reach Jury Tonight.

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 21.—The trial of Harry Hiatt, charged with the murder of his wife, is drawing to a close, and the case may reach the jury tonight. Most of the testimony offered by the defense was of an expert nature and tended to show the defendant to be insane.

It was gathered from the colonel's word that he intends to remain silent throughout the coming campaign.

WHITE MAN'S HYGIENE SAVED INDIAN TRIBE

Drastic Measures Broke Up a Smallpox Scourge.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 21.—A tribe of smallpox-stricken Indians at the Rampart house has been saved by white man's hygiene introduced among the Indians north of the Arctic circle by the Alaskan boundary survey party. Thomas Riggs, jr., chief of the American party and his assistant, M. J. Pope of Baltimore, have just returned.

The requirements of sanitary science, which included a bath in cold river water, were not adopted with enthusiasm by the hapless Indians, but after being coaxed with chocolate and tea or threatened with the white man's law, they accepted the alternative. Out of seventy-one cases of smallpox at Rampart house there was only one death. The Indians were placed in quarantine on an island in the Porcupine river with Dr. Gilbert Smith, one mounted policeman and a trained nurse in charge. Incidentally every Indian between the Arctic circle and the Arctic ocean encountered by the boundary survey party was vaccinated.

The boundary party was large. There were fifty Americans and twenty Canadians. The boundary line was run from Porcupine river to a point seven miles from the Arctic ocean.

The discovery of the stricken tribe of Indians was made by Riggs, Dr. Smith and Pope. More than fifty Indians were down with the scourge. Although the village was on Canadian soil, the Americans began their work without hesitation. Dr. Smith vaccinated the entire population, while Riggs and Pope enforced the rules of sanitation. The healthy Indians were put to work scrubbing and filthy outfits were burned.

MINING DULL

Coal Market Reports a Most Unusual Condition.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 21.—In thirty-five years' experience as a miner, President W. D. VanHorn of the Indiana United Mine Workers, says he never knew the industry to be as dull at this time of the year. Philip Penna, secretary of the Indiana Operators' association, says he never knew of like conditions. "This dull season is unheard of," said Penna. "It was expected trade would have picked up by this time. The local and domestic consumption is relatively small. It is the big factory and the railroads that make the mining industry prosperous. Many factories are idle. Cold weather might help some, but I cannot say."

PLAN TO COVER ENTIRE STATE

Promoters of "Men and Religion Forward Movement" Will be Extended Into Every County.

RUSHVILLE IS ON THE LIST

Already More Than Fifteen Hundred Cities in United States Are Identified With Movement.

Under the direction of George W. Brown the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" is being extended into every county in Indiana and by November 1 it is expected that there will be central organizations similar to that in Indiana in fifteen Indiana cities. Rushville is among the list of Indiana cities.

This is the work of the auxiliary cities committee, of which Mr. Brown is chairman. He has set November 1 as the date on which he hopes to have committees at work in various cities.

Already more than one thousand five hundred cities and towns in the United States are identified with the movement. There are about eighty principal cities, including Indianapolis, and the plan now being followed by Mr. Brown is interesting the other cities of the State through the central committee in Indianapolis is followed throughout the country.

Mr. Brown is proceeding aggressively in the work of organizing auxiliary committees of one hundred in the following Indiana cities: Monticello, Kokomo, Ft. Wayne, Marion, Muncie, Lafayette, Richmond, Rushville, Terre Haute, Bloomington, Greensburg, Vincennes and Evansville, Louisville and Cincinnati have been requested by Mr. Brown to include the counties along the southern border of Indiana, in their territories. South Bend is one of the principal cities originally selected as strategic points from which to work, and the central committee there already organized the nearby counties.

The plan of organization suggested at each place is similar to that proposed to Indianapolis by the national committee, and consists of a central committee of one hundred with ten sub-committees, as follows: Evangelistic, social service, Bible study, boy's work, missions, prayer circle, finance, publicity, auxiliary, cities and special emphasis campaign. To each of the cities named have been assigned several counties, and the committee of one hundred in each city is expected to extend its influence into the cities and towns of each of these counties, thereby making the movement cover the entire State.

Several members of the Indianapolis committee on auxiliary cities already have addressed meetings of men in other towns outlining the plan of work and assisting in forming organizations. This line of effort will be pursued by the committees.

SUIT IS ECHO OF BANK ROBBERY

National Surety Company is Made Defendant in Action Filed in Marion County Court.

BY THE NEW PALESTINE BANK

Effort is Made to Collect Burglary Insurance—Question of How Safe Was Opened.

An echo of the robbery of the New Palestine bank the night of December 29-30, 1910, when $6,606.50 was taken, is heard in a suit filed by the bank in the Marion Circuit court yesterday against the National Surety Company, in an effort to collect from the company on a burglary insurance policy the amount stolen from the bank. When the case comes to trial, it is believed from the complaint, that the question of how the safe was opened by the alleged burglar, Cordia Martin, probably will be decided. Martin was tried and convicted in criminal court in Indianapolis.

In the complaint filed yesterday the bank alleges that the surety company refuses to honor a claim because it was alleged that proper notice of loss was not given, and that the company was not bound by the insurance policy because the loss was not occasioned by "felonious abstraction" of the money by means of tools or explosives, and that the terms of the policy had been violated by the bank officials in not having all the time locks and combinations on the vault working the night of the robbery. The plaintiff alleges it did comply with all the terms of the policy and that it should be paid the $6,606.50 stolen. Cordia Martin has obtained a reversal of the verdict against him in criminal court on a decision touching the constitutionality of the statute under which he was tried.

Martin, who is now serving a term in the Michigan City prison for the theft, has been granted a new trial by the Supreme court, which holds that a person can not be tried over his protest in a county other than the one in which the alleged crime was committed. The Supreme court decision was as follows:

"A prisoner in a criminal action can not be tried against his protest in a county different from the one in which the offense was committed, and any statute to the contrary is unconstitutional. Where the crime of burglary was committed in Hancock county and the accused brought the stolen goods into Marion county, the State had no right to try the accused over his protest in Marion county for the commission of the burglary in Hancock county, and if the State wishes to prosecute the action in Marion county it must be for the crime of carrying the stolen property into Marion county. The breaking and entering not being a continuing offense, could not be removed to Marion county by reason of removing the stolen goods to that county."

WATER SUPPLY IS DANGEROUSLY LOW

Employees at Plant Say Horse Show

Caused Present Famine—Waste

Large Amount.

ONLY FOUR FEET IN RESERVOIR

The city water supply was dangerously low last night and today. The water in the reservoir was below the fire line last night and a bad blaze would have been hard to fight. There was only four feet of water in the reservoir last night and early this morning the supply had increased three feet. With the rains of last week it is hard to conceive how the supply of water could be so low but employees at the water and light plant say a great amount of water was wasted during the horse show and claim this was responsible for the present famine. It is said the water was used for washing buggies, harness and even horses. The great number of horses that were here would consume a large amount of water. It was hoped at the plant to have enough water in the reservoir for fire protection by tonight.

MINSTRELS TONIGHT.

Lloyd's minstrels of Greensburg will appear in this city this evening for the last time. Last night the room was crowded for all of the early shows and the first-part minstrel put on by the amateurs was up to the standard of that of the night previous. The fact that their show is largely local makes it all the more popular. They will give shows hourly tonight.
